Dear Colleague,

We hope that you are hanging in there during these crazy times! I must admit that I struggle to remember what day it is and happy hour seems to come earlier than usual.

We are happy to report that Jenna from our team arrived home safe and sound earlier this month. After being stuck in Peru for 11 days, she is currently under quarantine. Ana is still living under Martial Law in Argentina until further notice. Jane and I are under a "shelter in place" until the end of the month but our main question at this time of the year is "is it the pollen, or am I sick?"

We hope that our email provides a bit of an escape for a few minutes to visit our cool companies & cool places. Now is the perfect time to learn and we have a few new webinars planned. See the links below to register to join us! We are working on some fun ones with scientists, too. We also have a library of previously recorded ones, see below.

Lastly, we have just launched some new initiatives such as a link to current updates and specials from our portfolio (below) as well as a new VIP your clients (in the banner above) option. Continue to stay connected with us through social media and don't forget to sign up for the web trainings that we are doing.

We will get through this!

10 reasons to book your trip in the Amazon

What's the Big Deal with East Greenland?

Why is Iceland ProCruises adding wild and remote East Greenland to several of its 2021 itineraries? Because in some ways it's even more spectacular than the big island's west coast — and a lot less visited.

Two destinations in East Greenland — Ammassalik Island and Skjoldungen Fjord — are being added to next year's "Iceland & Natural Wonders of Greenland" cruises. MORE
